ROBERT “MAC” MCCLURE

LONG TERM CARE INSURANCE SPECIALIST

Robert McClure, or “Mac” as he is better known, has spent over twenty-five years helping families protect themselves from the crippling effects of long term care. An economics graduate from the University of Georgia, Mac has learned to simplify complex financial concepts, an approach which has won him repeated referrals from satisfied clients.

In his consultations, Mac relies on a stable of leading carriers from which to design affordable and sensible LTC plans. Known for his warmth and Southern charm, Mac has become one of the country’s most well-respected specialists by listening carefully to his clients’ needs and solving their problems with creativity.

Mac has been married for over 40 years to his wife Georgia, also an LTC Insurance Specialist, and three of their five children also specialize in long term care planning.
